Body Contouring Surgery is a group of cosmetic surgical procedures designed to reshape and enhance the body's contours by removing excess skin, fat, or tissue. It is often performed after significant weight loss, pregnancy, or aging to achieve a more proportionate and toned appearance. Common procedures include liposuction, tummy tucks (abdominoplasty), arm lifts (brachioplasty), thigh lifts, and body lifts. These surgeries are tailored to individual goals and needs, helping improve body aesthetics and self-confidence.
