You've set-up your ecommerce store with everything right at its place but are looking for a payment gateway for Indian Ecommerce Stores, then this blog is for you.

With the rise of Ecommerce, businesses like yours have had to adapt to new technologies and processes.

An Ecommerce business requires you to keep track of your payments. This could be the single most important thing.

In order to succeed, you need to choose the right payment gateway provider.

Payment gateways are the backbone of any online store. They allow merchants to accept payments from customers and manage recurring billing with ease.

A lot has changed since the first Ecommerce stores began appearing on the web years ago.

In fact, Ecommerce platforms have become extremely popular with small businesses, large corporations, and governments.

There are hundreds of new Ecommerce payment solutions every year, and they offer something unique. So, how should you choose?

What exactly is a payment gateway?

A payment gateway is an API or processing system that allows customers' data to be transferred to the merchant. You can process payments in your store and ultimately get paid when a customer purchases something.

It provides a secure method by which transactions between a merchant and customer are processed. A merchant can use credit cards, PayPal accounts, bank transfer, etc.

Some providers offer additional features such as fraud detection, IP address blocking, charge back management, etc.

Some of the most important things to look for in a payment g

- Security
- Cost
