Invicta is a leading diversified manufacturer of advanced components and products. As a family owned, middle-sized company with headquarters in New Delhi, we at Invicta have long-standing experience and competence in the area of Exhaust Systems and Emission Technology. With approximately 150 employees, we develop, produce, and market systems for the reduction of emissions of pollutants and corresponding components.

Over the years, Invicta has diversified into numerous other product categories such as Clamps, DIN Pole Rotating Beacon Mounting Brackets (DIN14620), Sealants and Gaskets, Trailer Parts, Fuel Tank Accessories and Components, Building Construction Hardware components, Fasteners, Precision Metal Parts and Components, Flanges , Pipe and Tube Fittings, Rubber Components, Spring and Wire Products, and Plastic Moulded Components.

As our business has grown over the years, we have established a presence in almost every corner of the globe, and at the same time we have amassed diverse technologies that have aided us in the design and development of new products. Our company was founded in 1980 from an innovative idea and, even after more than 40 years, enthusiasm for technology is still a significant mainspring for our employees who are continuously developing new ideas, processes, and products.

An ISO 9001 and ISO 14001 organization, Invicta is marked by its resolute drive to excel. Innovation, not just in process or technology but innovation of thought has made it a preferred partner and trusted supplier to leading Automotive giants and elite names in industries like Agriculture, Compressor, Earth Moving Equipment, Petrochemical, and Engineering.

At Invicta, we do not compromise on the quality of our products. Since our inception, we have strived to create high quality products that meet the needs of our customers. All products are tested at various stages of the development process and every single one of our 7 manufacturing facilities conform to the most rigorous industrial standards.

Consideration for the environment remains a core focus area for us. Moreover, we strive to improve our communities through volunteer activities, philanthropy, and welfare program
