Kidney stones are hard deposits formed by the build-up of minerals such as calcium or waste products such as uric acid in the kidneys. Some kidney stones move on their own and can be treated with home remedies, while other kidney stones can get trapped in your urinary tract. In the latter case, surgical interventions are usually required to get rid of kidney stones. Even after knowing all the types of surgeries, you should make sure to talk to your doctor about the benefits and risks of the surgery on your body before choosing any treatment option.
