Founded in 2013 by a multidisciplinary team of technocrats and environmental professionals, KORGEN is a professionally managed ISO 9001:2015 certified company and a leading enterprise in environmental engineering.

At Korgen, we understand the engineering challenges of environmental conservation and offer integrated solutions that use superior technologies to address these challenges. With a combined industry experience of over six decades in water purification, water treatment, sewage treatment, air purification and solar energy, our team of technocrats, engineers and environmental specialists are experts in accurately evaluating requirements and recommend / supply high quality precision-designed products that meet specific objectives.

We partner with best-in-class brands to provide standard consumer products, specialist equipment and fully customized solutions as well. Right from need analysis to technology selection, process design, engineering, turnkey execution and quality service, we undertake total ownership for the projects entrusted to us.

Our domain expertise and project execution capabilities enable us to blend hard core environmental engineering with the latest IT / IOT devices to give you a gamut of innovative, smart and sustainable solutions for the environmental challenges of today's world.

Headquartered in Chennai, our operations are presently confined to select Tier I and Tier II cities in Tamil Nadu and we plan to establish our reach across South India by the end of this financial year.
