Termite Treatment through piping system also known as Pipe Reticulation termite treatment system is a revolutionary system designed to effectively treat the area under concrete slabs or before the flooring is laid. It is system which is replenish-able unlike previous termite treatment methods. The Reticulation termite treatment system uses specially designed pipes to apply anti-termite chemical uniformly throughout a building's foundations. This system also helps in pre-emptive termite control by regulating the chemical flow to ensure that your home remains termite free for the foreseeable future!

We recommend Reticulation Termite Treatment for termite control and termite treatment as it is durable and provides efficient protection. Our Reticulation termite treatment and piping system pest control are being used extensively by the Indian Construction Industry for pre construction pest control and pre construction termite treatment all over North India and Delhi-NCR.
